5 tips to keep you safe this wildfire season

Establish a safety perimeter

Clear away dry brush, plants, and debris to maintain at least 30 feet of open space around your property. This slows down advancing flames and gives emergency crews a safer area to operate.

Clear out gutters and landscaping

Routinely clear your gutters of dead leaves, pine needles, and overgrown plants, as these can easily catch fire from drifting embers. This simple upkeep significantly reduces the risk of fire spreading to your property.

Invest in fire-resistant materials

Choose non-combustible options like metal or tile when replacing roofs, and utilize fire-resistant glass and doors to minimize your property's vulnerability.

Make an emergency escape plan

Outline a clear evacuation strategy for your household, complete with an agreed-upon meeting location. Regular practice ensures everyone knows how to react quickly in a crisis.

Monitor local alerts

Keep track of changing fire conditions and active evacuation notices via local news broadcasts, weather applications, and public emergency channels. Staying updated allows you to make smart choices and move quickly when it counts.
